Clashes near Al Aqsa on day of mourning

90 injured as Israeli police beat up protesters

OCCUPIED JERUSALEM. Jan 15, (Agencies): Israeli police clashed with stone-throwing Palestinian protesters on Jerusalem's Temple Mount today, injuring at least 90, while the Army killed another Arab in Israeli occupied Gaza city.

The UN Security Council, meanwhile, called on Israel to rescind its deportation of Palestinian civilians and allow the return of those already expelled.

Tear gas wasted into Al Aqsa Mosque, one of Islam's holiest shrines, and demonstrators outside burned Israeli and American flags and beat a plainclothes policeman unconscious after grabbing his pistol when he tried to fire warning shots, witnesses

Police in riot gear baton-charged about 300 Palestinian protesters who chanted Islamic slogans after Friday prayers in the Haram Al Sharif (noble sanctuary).

A doctor at Mokassed Islamic Hospital said about 90 casualties were treated there, including two dozen men who had been clubbed in the rioting and dozens suffering the effects of tear gas. Several police men limped away from the clash wounded.

Police said they arrested eight protesters.

Tanker war hots up as Iran raids three ships

DUBAI, Jan 15, (Reuter): Iranian gunboats attacked a Liberian tanker in the southern Gulf today just hours after ambushing a Norwegian tanker at the entrance to the waterway, shipping sources said.

They said a US warship contacted the 36,750-tonne Liberian-flag Atlantic Charisma after it sent out an emergency call that it had been hit 15 miles off the UAE port of Jebel Ali.

The attack was the third by Iran in two days, signalling a fullscale resumption of the Gulf tanker war in 1988.

It followed two unconfirmed reports by Iraq that its planes had hit two Iranian ships within The shipping sources said the captain of the Atlantic Charisma had declined an offer of aid by the US warship but his vessel was losing power. "We don't know if he is on fire or needs a tug," one source said.

It was not known if there were casualties. The ship was hit close to the UAE coast, at 1530 GMT, sour-

Seven hours earlier, Iranian gunboats raked the 13,524-tonne Norwegian liquid petroleum carrier Igloo Espoo with machin-egun and rocket fire as it sailed fully loaded out of the Gulf for South Korea from the Saudi Arabian port of Jubail.

Two crewmen were slightly injured in that attack.

Sailors wearing breathing apparatus clambered over the ship apparently checking for possible gas leaks caused by the Iranian machine-gun fire.

Olav Olufsen, a director of the Havtor Company in Norway, said "none of the tanks were hit. But there was a fire in the deck houses and at the engine."

As the tanker war hotted up, Tehran's top war spokesman said Iranian ground forces along the front line with Iraq were on full alert awaiting the order to start a new offensive. "We are now in the best position for restoring our rights." Tehran Radio quoted Parliamentary Speaker Ali Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani as telling a Friday prayers gathering in Tehran. A military spokesman in Baghdad said the first air attack on a "large naval target" took place yesterday evening and the second at early this morning, according to the official Iraqi news agency. The raids were designed "to stop the Iranians from exploiting their oil revenues," the agency quoted the spokesman saying.

That strike was the first by Iran on shipping in the Gulf since Christmas Day, when Iranian speedboats attacked the Saudi tanker Nejmat el Petrol.

An Iranian frigate and a speedboat ambushed the 20,466-ton Petrobulk Pioneer before dawn yesterday; cascading rocketpropelled grenades and cannon and machine gunfire on the help-less vessel off the UAE, shipping officials said.

Bullets and shells slammed into the superstructure and starboard crew quarters. Two Filipino crewmen cut their legs during a frantic dash for cover, shipping officials said.

The frigate fired 4-1/2-inch shells at the hull of the tanker and opened a hole below the waterline. The captain reported two holes in his bunker tanks and severe damage to the engine panel.

The captain of the Petrobulk Pioneer, a chemical tanker that was apparently bound for Bahrain in ballast, refused an offer of aid from a nearby tug and nursed his ship to anchorage at Dubai. There was no apparent involvement of US naval forces.

Siamese twins alive and kicking

By Jadranka Porter

DOCTORS at Kuwait's Ibn Sina hospital were conducting tests over the weekend on the Siamese twins born in Kuwait last week to help them determine whether the two girls are separable.

The twins, who weighed 6.2 kg at birth, are alive and kicking, their pulse is normal and they are fed intravenously although they can take liquids through their mouths. However, because one had problems breathing normally both are artificially ventilated. The twins are under constant observation.

According to the head of surgery department, M.A. Issa, their fate depends much on whether the twins have two hearts, something the X-ray and angiocardiography — a heart examination by injecting dyed fluid into vessels — did not show

Arafat sets conditions for accepting UN resolution 242

BAGHDAD, Jan 15, (AP): PLO leader Yasser Arafat warned yesterday that Palestinian protests in Israeli-held territory would go on, but said he would accept United Nations resolution 242 if Israel and the United States dropped opposition to PLO attendance at a Mideast peace conference. But he stressed that the international conference must be based on all United Nations resolutions, including those calling for Palestinian self-determination as well as resolution 242 that calls for recognition of Israel's right to exist behind

The public display of unity came after Khomeini sided with reform-minded groups in the leadership and declared last week the Islamic government had absolute powers and could nullify Islamic contracts if they were harmful to state interests.

The ruling, Khomeini's strongest pronouncement on the crucial issue of state authority, flew in the face of the traditionalist conservative wing in the Iran-ian leadership which seeks to limit the government's role in the

Aquino denounces violence

MANILA, Jan 15, (AP): President Corazon Aquino today denounced the mounting violence in campaigns for next week's local elections, saying it was part of desperate efforts by lefust and right-wing Philippine extremists to derail her country's return to democracy.

"I must strongly deplore the continuing violence in the current campaign for the Jan 18 elections,"Mrs Aquino said. These acts of violence prove that the enemies of democracy have restorted to naked and wanton terrorism as a last desperate

She blamed the killings on the "extreme left and the extreme right" who are "out to plunge our country into anarchy and derail the elections" in the same manner that they tried to disrupt ratification of a new constitution in February 1987 and last May's congressional elections. In the latest election-related incidents, unidentified gunmen killed three people and wounded seven others, including three candidates, in separate incidents Thursday, police said.

Among the candidates injured was Walfrido Ferrer, administration nominee for mayor of the Manila suburb of Paranaque, who suffered a gunshot wound in the abdomen when three gunmen opened fire on a stage during a campaign rally last night.

A female bystander was killed and seven other people, includ-ing two candidates for the town council, were injured, police said. Ferrer is the younger brother of the late local government secretary Jaime Ferrer who was assassinated last August.

Earlier. Foreign Secretary Raul Manglapus said on Thursday the Philippines would never achieve stability or democracy until the outlawed Communist Party was made legal.

Unless we undertake this integration, we can never enjoy fully fledged democracy," he told a meeting of diplomats.

But Manglapus said President Aquino did not feel it was the proper time politically to take up the issue and others in govern-ment did not share his belief.

Rebels refuse to share power with Kabul left

ISLAMABAD, Jan 15, (Reuter): Afghan Mujahedeen said on Thursday they would not share power with communists, despite reported remarks by Pakistani leaders that a future interim government should include members of the current Kabui administration.

The New York Times quoted President Muhammad Zia-ul-Haq and Prime Minister Mohammad Khan Junejo as saying in separate interviews that only a compromise involving all warring parties could guarantee an end to the nine-year-old guerrilla war.

Coalition

This meant some members of the pro-Soviet government, through not necessarily President Najibullah, should be included in an administration to take over after a Soviet troop withdrawal, they were quoted as saving.

"We cannot accept a coalition government," was the reaction of alliance chairman Younus Khalis, according to a spokesman for his Hezb-e-Islami party. Khalis did not elaborate.

"Newspaper interviews are not official positions, we don't consider this an official posi-tion," Najibullah Lafraie, political officer for Jamait-e-"As far as a coalition government with communists is concerned, this is rejected by the Mujahedeen," he said. Najibullah Mojadidi, general secretary of Jabha-e-Nijat-Milli, said he had not seen the text of Zia and Junejo's reported remarks and any reaction would have to come from the sevenparty alliance as a whole.

But the Mujahedeen had always rejected the idea of communists sharing in a post-Soviet administration.

"Any individual who has participated with the puppets is considered by us a pro-Soviet who has helped the Soviet presence in Afghanistan," he said. "They are included in the same category."

Indians punished for rape under Indian Army regulations.

JAFFNA, Jan 15, (Reuter): Four Indian soldiers have been discharged and sentenced to one year in prison after conviction for rape in Sri Lanka's northern Jaffna peninsula, an Indian officer said on Thursday.

The soldiers were among 35,000 Indian troops posted to the north and east to enforce an Indo-Sri Lankan accord last year to end a Tamil separatist revolt.

Brigadier R.I.S. Kahlon, Jaffna town commander, said the four were brought before a court martial within 96 hours of the filing of charges and punished

Residents also have complained about molestation of women, thefts and harassment, Kahlon told a group of journalists who were taken on a conducted tour of Jaffna.

He said all complaints were investigated and most were found to be incorrect.

Egypt's Arab image boosted

BAGHDAD, Jan 15, (Agencies): Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak today arrived in Baghdad from Saudi Arabia on a visit to Iraq within the framework of his current Gulf tour.

Mubarak was received by Iraqi President Saddam Hussein and other ranking Iraqi officials. The Egyptian leader arrived here from Saudi Arabia where he performed the Omra. Mubarak ended a six-nation Gulf tour on Thursday and headed for Saudi Arabia to visit the holy places in Makkah. The President, who started his Gulf swing in Saudi Arabia last Saturday in talks with King Fahd, left after meeting Sultan Oaboos Bin Said of Oman.

Egyptian officials said the two leaders discussed the Gulf war, one of the main topics covered in all the countries he visited.

His itinerary included Kuwait, Bahrain, Oatar and the United Arab Emirates as well as Oman and Saudi Arabia.

Commitment The tour has won Mubarak both prestige and prospects of aid for his debt-ridden country, diplomats said. For its part, Cairo restated its commitment to the security of Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) states in case of any Iranian attack. Mubarak's visit was his first since nine Arab states resumed diplomatic ties with Egypt in November after eight years of ostracism.

Subscribers making plenty of phone calls will be charged

A KUWAITI daily, quoting a Kuwait Ministry of Communications spokesman, said that additional charges would be imposed on telephone subscribers who make more than an average number of internal calls, which would apply to both office and home subscribers.

Meanwhile, Undersecretary of Kuwait's Communications Ministry, Abdul Aziz Al Ayoub, said that the ministry's project to modernise telephone networks in the country is in its final stages, but added that there was still work being done to transfer above-ground cables to underground networks and to lay lines in new areas.

Al Ayoub said the ministry fines contractors who destroy telephone cables during their work, adding that charges will also be made to cover the actual cost of the destroyed materials as well as the fine.

The undersecretary said the telephone communication systems among GCC states are now linked through underwater cables and satellites and that unified tariffs for calls made between GCC countries had been in effect for some time.

THE Director General of Kuwait Municipality Rashed Abdullah Al Othman said the legal committee of the municipal affairs committee is preparing a study on the feasibility of charging for Municipality cleaning services. The issue of fee collection is still under consideration, he said. adding that the Ministry of Electricity and Water had refused to include this fee on their bills. He said the Municipality hoped to reach a decision soon about fee collection which would involve one of the government departments or ministries in order to avoid the high administrative cost of the process.

Senator calls for more US-Soviet cooperation WASHINGTON, Jan 15,

(Kuna): A US Senator, touring the Gulf, is calling for expanded cooperation between the US and Soviet Union in protecting the Gulf region and ending the Iranlraq war, press reports here quoted him yesterday as saying: Speaking to American reporters, Senator Arlen Specter of Pennsylvania said that the Reagan-Gorbachev summit opens new possibilities for joint US-Soviet peace efforts in the Gulf.

Specter also disclosed that for the first time the US responded on Jan 5 to a Soviet request to hunt a mine in Gulf waters showing rare cooperation between the two superpowers in the Gulf waters. The US responded by sending two helicopters in response to a Soviet message giving the location of a suspected mine. The Russians eventually blow up the mine.

Specter said a Soviet minesweeperescorting a merchant ship passed the suspected mine but sailed on until the ship was out of danger. When the Soviet minesweeper returned to search for the mine, it radioed the battle cruiser

Richmond Turner for help. The Turner then radioed an accompanying American war-

65,000 crossed borders for spring holiday

A TOTAL of 65,000 people travelled abroad for the spring holidays through land routes alone, a Kuwaiti daily reported, adding that a comparable number was expected to have left the country by air. The daily said that this number represented people travelling through Abdali. Salmi and Nuwaiseeb border crossings last ship to launch its Lamps-3 surveillance helicopter to aid in the search, accompanied by a second helicopter gunship to provide protection.

In his comments, Specter, a member of the Senate Appropriations and Intelligence ommittees, urged the Soviets to support a US-sponsored arms embargo against Iran. Despite hints last month of a change in positions, Soviet officials recently have again suggested that an arms embargo is premature.

The senator also suggested that a Soviet-proposed United Nations peacekeeping naval force with US and Soviet participation 'might' effectively protect international shipping in the Gulf.

A unified US-Soviet stand, Specter stressed, is the key to solving the region's problems.
"If the Soviet Union and the US make up their minds to do something, it will be done" he said.

Unified civil defence law

A KUWAITI daily, quoting a well-informed source at Kuwait's Interior Ministry, said the deliberations were underway between Gulf Cooperation Council Interior Ministries, to reach a unified strategy on implementation of the civil defence law, following the system used in Kuwait.

The source said that eight specialised Kuwaiti officers working in this field have been selected to represent the country in the deliberations and to explain the system followed in Kuwait for civil desence activities.

The source added that a new department of National Security would be set up at the ministry following the completion of

Israeli defiance of UN decision

UNITED Arab Emirates newspapers in their editorials on Thursday stressed that Israel's defiance of the international decisions demonstrate its colonialist nature in seeking to usurp Arab lands and expel their people.

Al littihad newspaper of Abu Dhabi asked "what has the United Nations Security Council done to face the deliberate defiance of its resolutions and what steps does it plan to adopt to enforce respect for its decisions?"

The newspaper noted that the uprising in the occupied lands, which led to the councit's resolution condemning the expulsion of Palestinians, will continue to have an effect on future moves by the council. The stone-throwing revolution which tied down the American veto will surely move the world public opinion against the expulsion operations.

The newspaper appealed for "unified Arab support of the uprising facing the Zionist arrogance and to ensure its continuity and escalation, the only decisive reply to the enemy."

Al Bayan newspaper of Dubai said "the Israeli enemy has slapped the Security Council twice, once when it rejected the condemnation of repressive measures in occupied lands and in its refusal to cancel the decision to expel activists.

The newspaper added "israel also insulted the council when it prevented the United Nations envoys from carrying out his mission or entering the Palestinian comps."

The newspaper also said "the Israeli continued defiance of the United Nations is proof of the hypocrisy of those who speak about human rights in relation to the alleged rights of Jews trying to immigrate to Israel while they support with arms and money, and even diplomatic actions, all illegitimate Israeli actions."

Plants distributed to campers

KUWAIT'S General Authority for Agricultural Affairs and Fish Resources distributed hundreds of plants to campers at a number of camping areas on Wednesday.

Abdul Mohsen Al Galaf, the head of the authority's gardens section, said that over 2,000 plants had been given to campers in an effort to change desert camping sites to green areas. Campers were shown how to plant and care for the plants, which are a type generally grown in desert regions, he said, adding that the authority was pleased with the positive response of citizens in receiving the idea of greening the

Al Galaf encouraged residents to check on the growth of trees they had planted, and said that if the idea of having campers plant trees and plants was widely accepted, the authority would repeat the distribution in coming

Drugs shortage solved

THE acting Undersecretary Ibrahim Al Mudaf of Kuwait's Health Ministry said the shortage of drugs at health centres and hospitals had been solved following an increase in the budget from KD14 million to 18

Al Mudaf said that the dearth in drugs was the result of government's attempts to curb expenditures on medicines and failure to take hospital and health centre expansion into consideration. He added that the demand for drugs was continually increasing and that the whole drugs supply at the ministry had been exhausted prior to approval of the additional budget demands. The acting undersecretary said

Gel-like slime from Gulf catfish helps heal wounds

LOS ANGELES, Jan 15, (AP): Venomous Gulf catfish excrete a gel-like slime that dramatically speeds the healing of cuts and might spur development of new wound treatment for humans, a

'If you put it on a wound, you can actually see the wound start to close over in the next two or three minutes," said Richard Criddle, a professor of bio-chemistry and biophysics at the University of California at

"I used it on me. It works great," he said on Wednesday, Criddle and Kuwait University biochemist J.M. Hassan spent part of the last five years catching and scraping the slime coating off arius bilineatus, a species of saltwater catfish that but one liver the doctors have agreed that it will be possible to separate them without a loss of Another concern is whether the twins will live until it is safe to operate on them. Doctors were in favour of going slow in testing so as not to expose the babies to unnecessary strain.

They are now in reasonably good condition although they went through a little crisis on Wednesday morning at 3 am when the somewhat weaker looking baby named by doctors Number Two started becoming cyanotic — blue in the face because of the lack of oxygen. This affected the second baby, Number One, as well because they share a blood circulation

Doctors are full of praise for consultant anaesthetist, Dr Jaffar Faraj, who was on duty at the time and who promptly inserted endotracheal tubes into babies' lungs attaching them to two separate mechanical ventilation machines to help the babies breath normally.

The critical situation may arise if a lung in one of the babies collapses. Both babies would then be in danger because of the high rate of impure gases in their bloodstream.

Another threat comes from the so called shunting which occurs when one circulation system is bombarded by another causing acidoses — formation of acids which have a disruptive effect on the body.

Sure Doctors are sure that if one baby suffers an affliction the other will be affected too. They found that if one baby is pinched the pulse of both quickens, and if one is given an anaesthetic both fall asleep. If their bodily functions are not disrupted the twins can live at least five years without being separated, say the doctors. They quote an example of Siamese twins joined at the back who lived 65 years.

COPENHAGEN, Jan 15, (Reuter): Not content with its own 1.500 square miles of desert, Dubai in the United Arab Emirates has decided to import 30 tonnes of sand from Denmark, a spokesman said on Thursday.

SHEIKH Khalifa Bin Salman Al Khalifa, Bahrain's Minister of Labour and Social Affairs, said the workforce in Bahrain's private sector totalled 140,000 labourers with 42 per cent representing national manpower and 58 per cent foreign, adding that his ministry had set up a training programme aimed at upgrading the national workforce in order to replace the foreign one.

Sheikh Khalifa, speaking at a press conference following the ninth session of Arab Gulf Social Affairs and Labour Ministers, said that by 1992 it was expected that these percentages would be of more equal proportions and that in ten years the figures would be reversed.

Meanwhile, the minister praised the outcome of the session, saying that several resolutions and recommendations had been passed, which included the organisation of a seminar on the effect of maids on Arab Gulf communities.

Khomeini sides with radicals

By Martin Marris

(AP): Ayatollah Khomeini, by affirmng the absolute power of Islamic government, appears to have sided with radicals whose proposals for economic reform have been blocked by conservatives.

The 87-year-old patriarch recently accused President Ali Khamenei, who has support among Iran's wealthy merchant class, of trying to limit the role of government, which he said was an institution ordained by the Almighty and founded with absolute power.

Several Iranian leaders quickly expressed approval for K homeini's statement.

The latest figure to join the fray. Prime Minister Hussein Musavi, has said that Khomeini's decree would strengthen the "executive arm" of

The Prime Minister has been at the forefront of efforts to control soaring inflation, crack down on "profiteers" and redistribute land against resistance from the business community and some religious leaders.

Legislation on these issues has consistently been blocked by the 12 member Council of Guardians, which scrutinises all legislation, on the grounds that Islamic laws on the sanctity of private property would be violated.

Despite opposition from the council and from Iran's wealthy merchants whose prices would be controlled, Khomeini last July gave the government special powers to enforce its campaign without having to go to the courts. Price controls were imposed on 24 types of goods in an effort to control galloping inflation, estimated at more than 50 per Under Iran's theocratic constitution, all legislation passed by the Mailis, or Parliament, must be approved by the Council of Guardians, made up of religious experts.

The powerful Parliament Speaker, Hashemi Rafsanjani, said Khomeini's affirmation of government power showed the patriarch's "depth of leadership and competency of man-

He told Parliament that Khomeini's leadership had saved the people, the revolution and Islam from discord and sedition. Irna reported.

Rafsanjani, a pragmatist who is close to Khomeini, appealed to Khomeini last June to help break the deadlock over economic legislation, but Khomeini demurred until July.

The revolutionary patriarch has reluctantly intervened in day-to-day economic issues and indicated that he prefers legislation to grow out of consensus.

Indications of that reluctance appeared last week when he said in his letter to Khamenei that he would have preferred not to say anything on the issue "in the present sensitive situation." In defence of the government's rights to expropriate property, Khomeini said it had the right to destroy a house, or even a mosque, as long as it paid a rightful price to its owner.

"Our government ... has priority over all other Islamic tenets, even over prayer, fasting and the pilgrimage to Makkah." he was quoted as telling Khameini.

Diminish

The jockeying for power among Iranian leaders appears to be intensifying and contentious economic issues could figure prominently in the run-up to parliamentary elections April Khomeini last month announced a new "political will and testament" on how Iran should be run after he dies. No details were released. Observers believe that in a post-Khomeini Iran. Montazeri may be not much more than a figurehead, with real power going to the winner of a coming power struggle.

Rafsanjani, whose prestige was partially dented by reports he was involved in the US armsto-Iran affair, appears to be trying to identify himself as closely as possible with Khomeini's line.

The current victim of the power struggle appears to be Khamenei. Although Khomeini told him that he prayed to God to "save people like you who have no intention but to serve Islam," his accusation that Khamenei misquoted and misinterpreted his views can only diminish the President's prestige.

US conservatives afraid of an Afghan sellout

By E . A Wayne

WASHINGTON: Some American conservatives, alarmed by apparent warming in US-Soviet ties, are warning that the administration may bargain away too much in order to get a settlement in Afghanistan. But informed United States officials say that is poppycock. These conservatives say the danger of "selling out" and mismanaging the situation is evident in reports of policy dis-agreements between the White House and the State Department. The debate concerns when the US would be willing to stop aid to the Afghan resistance as part of an overall settlement package.

Stories about disagreement are way overblown, State Department and other officials say. The US will hold firm in its support of the Afghan mujahideen until Moscow has agreed to a short withdrawal timetable and a date certain for that to begin. With this and other assurances that the resistance will not be endangered, officials add, the US will stick to its previously confidential agreement to terminate aid to the guerrillas when the Soviet troop withdrawal begins.

Thus far this is academic. officials say, because Moscow has yet to move beyond enticing words to a firm and acceptable withdrawal plan. No substantial progress was evident during the US-Soviet summit, they say. Until the Soviets bite the bullet, the full range of US support (including covert military aid) for the mujahideen will con-

Kim Wilde keeps hanging on

By Mike Hrano

MENTION the name Kim Wilde and it's sex rather than music that springs to most people's mind.

Certainly, she can sing — but it's her blonde hair and good looks that are instantly memorable, not her songs. Now 26, the girl so often called the 'Bardot of pop' has learned to come to terms with such thinking.

For the nearest thing Britain has to Madonna is content to let others see her as they will. because she knows different.

Six years in the music business have taught her to make the most of her assets on her own terms. Blonde she may be. but dumb she is not.

"I'm a rounded sort of person with big lips, so dyeing my hair blonde was a disaster as far as people taking me seriously recognising me as an intelligent being." Kim says, recalling her teenage decision to follow in the footsteps of such famous peroxides as Marilyn Monroe and — more recently — Debbie Harry of Blondie.

"People in general have preconceived ideas, not just about women with blonde hair, who have large lips, look pretty and are famous - but about race, religion, vegetarians; everything.

So I decided, not consciously, to put myself into an obvious bag just so that it was somewhere I could develop from. It's a kind of shield, a camouflage to sell.

"l know sex sells and I know blonde hair sells — so you known that you're on to a winner. In a way, it was quite cal-culated, but I also think it suits

More to the point, it helps Kim Wilde shift records and has done - bar one or two slack periods — ever since she first turned up in the British charts with her debut hit single, Kids in America, at the beginning of 1981.

She will be the first to admit that the story of her progress through the music industry has been patchy but while others

Kim Wilde: blonde she may be, dumb she is not allowed similar career peaks and troughs to beat them. Wilde has soldiered on.

But she has always maintained enough support to continue - so it was perhaps quite fitting that the song which last year won her worldwide popularity should be called You Keep Me Hangin' On. An energetic version of the old Supremes' classic hit from the '60s, the record not only revived her appeal at home but built on it abroad, culminating in the pinnacle of her musical achievements so far; an American number one.

It was the second time in her career that Wilde had made a comeback. After her initial success has steadily dwindled, she employed a style agency — to the tune of around $5,000 a week — to come up with a new image for her towards the end of 1984.

The resulting re-vamp, a cross between the look of Wonderwoman and an astronaut, could only push the accompanying single to number 29 in Britain and a follow-up — The Touch - failed to make the Wilde lives alone in a North London flat, but still keeps in constant touch with her family. She has little option; her mother Joyce - a former Vernons girl — manages her, father Marty writes songs with her, and brother Ricky produces her records.

She is happy, however, to have finally shaken off the belief that she was little more than a pop puppet, shaped and manipulated by her father. And there is no longer any great mileage in the fact that dad was a 60s pop star — his hits included Rubber Ball and A Teenager In Love. Kim Wilde, after all, is a pop star herself. "I didn't think for a minute that all this was going to happen," she says. "Success is nice, but I'm more concerned about the reasons why I came into this business in the first

Pepsi (right) and Shirlie: fragments of the Wham explosion.

High-orbit girls

By Stuart Wavell

THE pop duo Pepsi and Shirlie, fragments of the exploded group Wham!, are saving themselves. Kinetic energy, two hit singles, and a recent album have carried them on a trajectory they charted long before Andrew Ridgeley shrank from sight behind George Michael's supernova. But two years is a long time in high orbit and burn-out nags their dreams of fame and riches.

"We are saving ourselves until we play a real-life gig," said Shirlie Holliman, aged 25. "You can ruin yourself. You can do a lot of PAs (personal appearances) and get paid a lot of money. We have refused to do anything like that. People say 'We don't want to see them because we saw them in a night-

As a result the two former backing singers, neither of whom yet owns a house, have been nursing their resources. People think we must be millionaires. If only they knew," sighed Shirlie.

They paid half the cost of a video they had just shot amid much smoke, leaving them redeyed yesterday. During the last one they called a doctor. At least they wore plastic dresses, a relief after rubber. Very hot, rubber dresses, said Shirlie.

Pioneers of the puff-ball dress, they found their creations copied by the big stores, so now they market their own. They agonise whether the tail is wagging the dog. Pepsi. a Londoner whose

Two years ago they accompanied Wham! to China. There's not very much to say about China," pronounced Pepsi de Macque, aged 28. This was not true. "I personally don't want to go back," she went on. "It was a heavy experience. The young are dying to cut loose.'

Shirlie: "They are experiencing the want and they are not allowed to have it.`

Pepsi: "In our shows we saw people being carried out of the stadium for standing up and clapping. I don't think the tour was a good idea. I felt I had left those people in limbo."

They worry about Hong Kong. About having allowed themselves to be persuaded to wear fur coats in a picture spread. And about the fact that no one takes them seriously. "We have a lot to say," said Pepsi. "But the impression is given that we're dumb, silly and don't know what to do with our success."

This month they are doing a charity concert in Jordan at the behest of Princess Basma. King Hussein's sister. "Where's Jordan?" asked Shirlie.

Iran and Turkey sign interim protocol on oil pipeline

ANKARA, Jan 15, (Reuter): Turkey and Iran signed an interim protocol yesterday for the construction of an oil pipeline between the two countries, Foreign Ministry officials

The line to carry oil from Iran's Abvaz field to the Turkish Mediterranean port of Dortyol would give Tehran an outlet safe from Iraqi attack in the Gulf.

Iraq also has an export pipeline through Turkey with a capacity of 1.5 million barrels per day (bpd) which terminates on the Mediterranean near Dortyol.

The interim protocol between Tehran and Ankara was signed after talks by an Iranian technical delegation here with Turk-ish officials.

The 1,860 km (1,160 miles) $4 billion line would carry one million barrels per day (bpd) of Iranian oil and take up to three years to build.

The Iranian head of delegaon. Mohammad Javad Asemipur, said the protocol would provide a basis for further talks in Tehran. It provided the outline for the final agreement, expected to be signed during a visit by Prime Minister Turgut Ozal to Iran, he added.

Those who see the pipeline project as a short-term one and due to the ongoing war (with Iraq) are mistaken. Despite all the difficulties, we are able to export our oil. We have other means for an outlet which we don't use now and keep them for the worst days" Asemipur said.

Lawson may increase interest rates

LONDON, Jan 15, (AP): Chancellor of the Exchequer Nigel Lawson made it clear on Wednesday night that he is prepared to raise interest rates if necessary to combat inflation.

He turned down appeals by the employers' organisation, the Confederation of British Industry, to cut the cost of borrowing. Both Lawson and Robin

Leigh-Pemberton, governor of the Bank of England, stressed the need to avoid inflation, which the Chancellor said "is at the very heart of government policy and ought to be."

British interest rates were cut by 1-1/2 per cent to 8-1/2 per cent in the wake of the stock market crash in October, to bolster confidence and head off the prospect of recession.

Lawson, chairing the quarterly meeting of the National Economic Development Council, said he believed fears of recession had been "laid to rest" though there were still risks.

He pointed to the twin US budget and trade deficits, which he said have undermined stock market confidence and sent the dollar tumbling.

The finance minister said the United States was likely to put its interest rates up at some stage to deal with the massive deficits.

Lawson said prospects for the world economy were better than most people thought likely a short while ago, with faster growth, interest rate reductions and greater international cooperation all playing their

Dutch strike oii under refinery

PERNIS, Netherlands, Jan 15, (AP): The Dutch have struck oil right under one of Western Europe's largest oil refineries. the Dutch Petroleum Company

(Nam) said yesterday. The substantial oil deposit was discovered in November during test drilling at the Royal Dutch Shell refinery near this Rotterdam suburb, according to Nam spokesman Frank Duut. A substantial natural gas deposit was found at the same time, but was disclosed last year.

The Netherlands contains large natural gas fields, but oil deposits are rare and the Netherlands imports all its crude petroleum supplies.

Nam surveyors believe the Perms site contains an estimated 12-16 million barrels worth 350 million guilders ($137 million). Dunt said, adding that extraction of the oil is expected to start within two years.

The field also contains 5 billion cubic meters (175 billion cubic feet) of natural gas with a market value of a billion guilders ($540 million); Duut said.

The fact that the Shell refinery sits above the field will cut development costs, Duut said, adding that the fuels are Nam

North Sea oil bonanza comes to an end

LONDON, Jan 15, (UPI): The bonanza from Britain's North Sea oil and gas is coming to an end. according to Inland Revenue Statistics out today

The 1987 figures revealed the slump in world oil prices in 1986 took a heavy toll on the government's tax revenues.

They illustrated how Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's period in office benefited from the boom in oil and gas produc-tion from the North Sea, now past its peak.

In 1978-79, revenue from oil swelled Treasury coffers by just £565 million ($1.017 billion), rising to £2.313 billion ($4.1634 billion) the following year and £12.028 billion ($21.6504 billion) in 1984-85.

By 1985-86, it had slipped to £11.343 billion ($20.4174 billion).

Then the collapse in world oil prices in early 1986 — from $30 to between $10 and 14 a barrel slashed revenue, which fell to £4.798 billion ($8.6364 billion) in

Iran, Algeria sign trade agreement

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Jan 15, (AP): Iran and Algeria yesterday signed an agreement to boost trade and economic cooperation, the official Islamic Republic News Agency reported. The agency, monitored in Cyprus, said the agreement was signed by a Deputy Minister of Heavy Industries, Hassan Ramazanian-Pour, and Algerian Deputy Commerce Minister Mourad Medelci. The Algerian official is in Tehran for talks with his Iranian counterparts. The news agency said Iran would "in the near future" export zinc, cement, ball bearings, and jeep-type cars to Libya. It said Libya in turn would send textiles, aluminium plate, chemicals and other commodities. The agency said trade between the two nations was expected to reach $160 million this year. Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khaddafi, once Iran's backer in its 7-year-old war against Iraq, has in past months been backing off, describing the war as wasteful and urging Iran to seek peace.

Italy to finance Indonesian geothermal plant

JAKARTA, Jan 15, (Reuter): Italy will help Indonesia exploit its large reserves of geothermal energy by financing construction of a power plant in West Java, Indonesia's National Development Planning minister said yesterday. Johannes Sumarlin said the Italian government will provide financing of $71 million on concessional terms for construction of the 110 megawatt plant at Mt Salak, 60 kms (40 miles) south of Jakarta. Agreement on the loan was announced following the visit to Indonesia of Italian Prime Minister Giovanni Goria last week. Sumarlin told reporters after a meeting with President Suharto the plant would be built by an Italian company, and consist of two 55 megawatt units. He did not name the company but Goria's delegation included executives from Italy's state energy conglomerate ENI. Oil producer Indonesia is estimated by the government to have an estimated total geothermal potential of 10,000 megawatts, but it has only just begun exploiting this, with two small plants operating on Java, and a larger one under construction. But the government is keen to diversify its energy sources away from reliance on oil. The loan includes $8.2 million to finance Indonesian government costs in the project. Sumarlin said the soft loan would be repayable in 20 years, with a grace period of 10 years and an interest rate of 1.5 per cent per annum. Agreement on the loan would be signed shortly, he stated without elaboration.

BP cash offer 'inadequate'

LONDON, Jan 15, (AP): British Petroleum Co Pic yesterday formally launched its £2.27 billion ($4.13 billion) cash offer for Britoil Plc, which has reached a competing, friendly agreement for Atlantic Richfield Co. to acquire a partial Britoil stake. BP. which had said it would offer 450 pence ($8.19) a share for the 70.1 per cent of the Glasgow-based North Sea oil company it does not already own, confirmed the cash offer in a document sent to Britoil's shareholders. BP also announced that it would offer Britoil's shareholders a lower alternative of cash and BP stock which — at BP's share price yesterday — values Britoil's shares at 443 pence ($8.06) each or a total of £2.23 billion ($4.06 billion).

A Britoil spokesman rejected the BP offer as "derisory" and "totally inadequate," after I get my baggage ready," he said.

Oman boosts gas reserves

BONN, Jan 15, (AP): West Germany's 1987 budget deficit grew far more than expected because of sluggish growth and other factors, reaching 27.5 billion marks ($16.8 billion), Finance Minsiter Gerhard Stoltenberg said yesterday.

Stoltenberg said the budget deficit was 5.2 billion marks ($3.2) billion) more than originally planned.

The United States and other nations have been putting pressure on West Germany to stimulate economic growth, which could help ease the huge American trade deficit. Decline

On another issue, Stoltenberg also told reporters that the United States does not want the dollar to decline further.

Last week, Stoltenberg said the 1988 budget deficit will also be greater than planned for - by about 10 billion marks ($6 billion). He said one of the major factors was the sharp plummet of the US dollar late last year. At yesterday's news conference, Stoltenberg said the wider 1987 budget shortfall resulted from lower tax revenues caused by slower economic growth and other factors.

In 1987, West Germany's Gross National Product (GNP) increased an inflation-adjusted 1.7 per cent, according to preliminary government statis-

Meanwhile, Economics Minister Martin Bangemann said in a statement that the West German government will aim at real economic growht of between 1.5 per cent and 2.0 per cent in 1988.

But he cautioned that the "range of prognoses" lies bet-ween 1 per cent and 2 per cent. Clear Stoltenberg told reporters it is clear from statements by US officials in recent days that the United States does not want the dollar to drop further. He said the seven major industrialised nations, known as the G-7, had succeeded in keeping the dollar relatively stable between February 1987 — when they signed the so-called Louvre accord to stabilise currencies and October.

Stoltenberg said the G-7 made another attempt to stabilise the dollar with a Dec 22 statement that essentially reaffirmed the Louvre accord. He said finance ministries and central banks can bring about "a certain stabilisation of the dollar," but he cautioned that economic fundamentals also play an important role. Attributed

On Frankfurt currency markets, the dollar was fixed yesterday 1.6374 West German marks, up from Wednesday's 1.6269.

Dealers attributed the gain to Wednesday's round of concerted interventions by several central banks, including the US Federal Reserve and the West German

Mexico renews Japanese oil

MEXICO CITY, Jan 15, (AP): The government oil monopoly Pemex announced on Wednesday the renewal of a contract to sell 180,000 barrels daily of crude oil this year to Japan.

A brief statement said the 12month contract was signed at Pemex's Mexico City headquarters by Francisco Rojas, Pemex general director, and Zenji Tatai, executive vice presdient of the Mexican Petroleum Importing Co.

The company represents ican crude.

Mexico is the world's fifth largest oil producer. Pemex announced on Monday that sales to foreign buyers last year brought in $7.82 billion, a hefty 40 per cent increase over 1986.

Debate

Murdoch, who is battling, to avoid being legally obliged to shed media interests in the United States, has denied wanting to take over the Financial Times and claims to want only a closer relationship. He was accused during a debate in parliament on Wednesday of contributing personally to a steep decline in press standards.

Speakers in the House of Lords singled out the Sun, a brashly irreverent tabloid owned by Murdoch, and his senationalist Sunday newspaper the News of the World, for harsh criticism.

"Mr Murdoch is far more representative of the present condition in the tabloid press than all his editors and journalists put together," said Labour's Lord Longford.

The Sun, which pioneered the daily publication of nude pin-ups known as page three girls, is the paper most complained about to the Press Council, a body which oversees press conduct although it has no statutory powers.

The Sun and its rival, the Star, have been accused of persecuting the Royal family and plumbing new depths of bad taste. A Sun front page story after a recent Church of England debate of homosexuality among the clergy carried the headline: "pulpit pools can stay."

Lord Deedes, once a Conservative cabinet minister and former editor of the Daily Telegraph, told the Lords the prestige of the national press "is at a very low ebb - the lowest I have known in about half a century of journalism."

Deedes said court juries "are increasingly attaching public anger with the press to the awards they make in libel cases." Awarded

Best-selling author Jeffrey Archer, a former Conservative Member of Parliament, was awarded £500,000 ($910,000) last year by a libel jury which cleared him of claims by The Star that he had paid a prostitute hush

Quoted by the Arabic daily 'Oman', the sources said that this year three gas prospecting programmes would be launched in the sultanate at a cost of $6.30 million. In 1987, Oman's natural gas consumption totalled 50 billion on ft with demands averaging 150 million and 400 million cu. ft a day in summer and winter respectively. Following the launching of a special exploration programme in 1984, Oman's natural gas reserves stood at 7.60 trillion ca. ft, increasing to 7.70 trillion ca. ft in 1985 and 8.10

London Stock Market Report

UK STOCKS JUMP ON US TRADE DATA, BUT BELOW HIGHS

BY JOE ORTIZ LONDON. JAN 15 - SHARES STAGED A SPECTACULAR RALLY AFTER NEWS OF A SMALLER THAN EXPECTED 13.22 BILLION DLR U.S. NOVEMBER TRADE DEFICIT WAS GREETED WITH HUGE RELIEF, DEALERS SAID. THE MARKET RECEIVED A FURTHER BOOST FROM AN EARLY SURGE ON WALL STREET AND THE FTSE 100 INDEX REACHED A HIGH OF 1,793.6

BEFORE EASING TO STAND A NET 38.3 UP AT 1,781.7 AT 1530 GMT. DEALERS SAID PRICES WERE BELOW THEIR BEST ON PROFIT-TAKING. IAN HARWOOD, DIRECTOR OF U.K. EQUITIES AT WARBURG SECURITIES
, SAID "THE FIGURE WAS A VERY PLEASANT SURPRISE, BUT THERE WERE IMMEDIATE SECOND THOUGHTS OVER THE U.S. DEFICIT TREND."

HARWOOD ADDED "IF YOU TAKE THE LAST TWO MONTHS TOGETHER TO GET A USEFUL INDICATION, THEN YOU STILL COME OUT WITH AN AVERAGE OF OVER 15 BILLION DLRS, WHICH IS STILL VERY BAD."

THE U.S. TRADE GAP SOARED TO A RECORD 17.6 BILLION DLRS IN OCTOBER AND THERE HAD BEEN WIDESPREAD FEARS THAT THE NOVEMBER DATA WOULD NOT SHOW A SUBSTANTIAL IPROVEMENT. IN THE EVENT, THE FIGURE WAS BELOW THE LOWEST FORECASTS AND THE DOLLAR CLIMBED STEEPLY, GAINING FIVE PFENNIGS AGAINST THE MARK.

THIS HELPED DOLLAR EARNERS RISE SHARPLY, BUT DEALERS SAID THEY WERE NOT SURPRISED THAT THE RALLY MET SOME PROFIT-TAKING AS THE OUTLOOK FOR THE U.S. DEFICITS AND THE DOLLAR IS STILL BLEAK.

London Gold

LONDON, JAN 15 - GOLD BULLION RALLIED TO CLOSE LITTLE CHANGED FROM THURSDAY'S LONDON CLOSE AT 481.50/482.50 DLRS AN OUNCE AFTER DIPPING SMARTLY FOLLOWING NEWS OF A SMALLER THAN EXPECTED U.S. TRADE DEFICIT IN NOVEMBER OF 13.22 BILLION DLRS. GOLD HAD DROPPED TO AROUND 478/479 DLRS, BUT FOUND GOOD SUPPORT AT THE LOWS DESPITE THE SUBSEQUENT SURGE IN THE DOLLAR

FOLLOWING THE TRADE FIGURE, DEALERS SAID. GOLD WAS FIRMLY INDICATED AT 485.00/485.50 DLRS JUST BEFORE THE U.S. DATA CAME OUT, WITH THE MARKET GENERALLY EXPECTING A DEFICIT NEARER TO OCTOBER'S RECORD 17.63 BILLION SHORTFALL. GOLD CLOSED AT 481.75/482.25 DLRS ON THURSDAY.

London Money Market

LONDON, JAN 15 - MONEY RATES ROSE AS MUCH AS 3/16 POINT THIS AFTERNOON AFTER NEWS OF A SMALLER THAN EXPECTED U.S. TRADE DEFICIT IN NOVEMBER PUSHED THE DOLLAR SHARPLY HIGHER AND LOPPED HALF A POINT OFF STERLING'S TRADE-WEIGHTED INDEX, DEALERS SAID. THE INDEX ENDED AT 74.7, WITH THE DECLINE DUE PURELY TO A FALL OF OVER FOUR CENTS IN STERLING'S VALUE AGAINST THE DOLLAR. THE 13.22 BILLION DLR U.S. TRADE DEFICIT CAME AS A RELIEF TO MOST MARKETS, WHICH HAD BEEN FEARING ANOTHER DOLLAR COLLAPSE ALL WEEK. BUT IT MAY MEAN THAT THE U.K. AUTHORITIES NOW HAVE THE LEEHAY TO RAISE INTEREST RATES TO DAMPEN DOWN AN ECONOMY THEY FEAR IS GROWING TOO FAST, DEALERS SAID.

Wall Street Market Report

New York, Jan 15 - Wall Street stocks rallied forcefully on news of a much smaller-than-expected US merchandise trade deficit in November, traders said. They reported heavy foreign and domestic interest in stocks as the dollar rose, easing the threat of higher interest rates.

The Dow 30 was up 48 points at 1964 and gainers outran declining issues twelve-to-one. Trading was moderately active.

High Tech issues were leaders with IBM up 3-1/2 to 119-3/8, Hewlett-Packard anead 2-3/8 at 57-1/8 and Compaq ahead 1-3/4 at 54-1/2.

HONG KONG, Jan 15, (Reuter): The former chairman of Hong Kong's Stock Exchange was accused today of taking a bribe of 1.1 million cut-price shares to help a company list its stock on the British colony's floated in the past. British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher said on Wednesday of sterling's EMS entry: "I think that the turbulence we have been through has shown that it is not yet the time to join."

Dollar bounces up on US trade figures

NEW YORK, Jan 15, (Reuter): Stock prices surged around the world and the dollar jumped on currency markets today after the United States reported an unexpectedly large drop in its November trade deficit.

"The markets are going through the proof. This is an exceptionally good number," said a New York dealer.

Wall Street stocks surged 50 points on the Dow Jones industrial average to 1.951 in the first 15 minutes of trading and held onto the gain throughout the morning.

Narrowed

The Commerce Department said the trade deficit narrowed in November to $13.22 billion from a record 17.63 billion in October, surprising even the most optimistic forecasters who had been expecting a figure in the 14 to 15 billion range.

The dollar immediately shot higher, advancing by four marks and four yen to 1.6700 marks and 129.90 yen from yesterday's close

"It's fast and furious," said Karen Kluge of Credit Suisse, referring to trading activity after the trade report.

"For the first five minutes after the number, it was like the stock exchange on October 19. You couldn't find a price," said Chris Bourdain of Bank of America's New York office.

The London stock market's main blue-chip barometer, the FTSE-100 share index, gained more than 15 points to 1.755 after the trade figure was announced. British government bonds also soared.

Jumped Paris shares jumped 2.6 per

The benchmark US Treasury 30-year bond jumped $1.75 to $100.31 per $100 face value of bonds.

The dollar gained nearly four yen to 129.90 yen. Against sterling it gained more than four cents to trade at 1.7825 dollars to Dealers had feared yet another big trade deficit, remembering that bad US trade figures helped trigger the 'Black Monday' October 19 markets crash.

Also, they recalled that news in December of the record monthly trade deficit for October caused a new retreat of share values and hit the dollar.
Arguing

By January 4 the dollar was at historic lows of just 120.20 Japanese yen and 1.5615 West German marks, from which it had to be rescued by concerted intervention during the past 10 days by central banks in the United States, Europe and Japan.

Some economists have been arguing that the dollar had fallen too far.

They said the trade deficit would start to come down as a cheaper dollar priced foreign goods off the US market and has American companies started gaining sales overseas. "US manufacturers are the areas, European manufacturers are holding market share only by severely cutting profit margins. and will soon be forced to cut production and jobs," said Sykes Wilford, an economists at investment bankers Drexel Burnham low cost producers in many

The trade deficit reported today declined in part because exports for the month soared 9.4 per cent to a record $23.8 billion. Imports fell six per cent to 37.02 per cent.

While financial markets hang on the release of US trade figures, many sceptical analysts in the United States say these monthly statistics are little more than guesswork.

But the trade figures have repeatedly moved markets in the recent turbulent months. Anxiety Besides general anxiety about the US economy, an explanation for the impact made by bad figures seems to be that currency operators have judged that - for imports much more than it exports - it would pour out more dollars than people wanted.

So anticipating a fall in the value of the dollar, they have sold and taken it down. Stock markets then fell, too, because a weak dollar threatens inflation in the United States and pinches Asian and European companies' exports earnings.

Friday's good figures might signal a firmer trend in all markets. Several brokers were saying that anything better than a forecast $15 billion deficit could be regarded as a positive sign.

As the dollar gained, gold plummeted, losing $10.20 per ounce to $481 in New York. Analysts said markets in Europe had been paralysed ahead of the US trade figures. The Japanese, whose markets were closed today for a holiday.

Central Bank favours merger

Bank welcomed any good results and returns by any bank or company, but would not agree to distribution of profits to shareholders at the expense of financial results which were known to the Central Bank. He said the Central Bank realised the effect of such distribution of profits on the activity of these banks and companies. He said this may not be clear now, but the Central Bank's policy was based on concern for the future activities of the local banks and companies.

Refused

Sheikh Salem said that when the Central Bank refused a request to distribute a certain profit rate it was because the Central Bank wanted to protect the assets of the bank or company. But if the Central Bank found the results were good, then it agreed to the request.

Speaking about the speculation in buying US dollars by local banks, he said that resulted in lack of liquidity in Kuwaiti dinars and causing KD interest rates to rise up to 40 per cent for one night. He said, in 1981 the interest rate had shot up to 53 per cent for one night. He explained that the local banks, taking advantage of the dollar's sharp drop to 269 fils, had started buying dollars without covering their dinar deposits with the Central Bank. The Central Bank then intervened, and commercial banks which were speculating had to hurry and cover their deposits and were forced to pay a high interest rate for

He said the Central Bank did not object to the financial activities of commercial banks. but said these activities should be legal and should not be at the cost of the Kuwaiti dinar.

About implementation of the difficult loans settlement programme, the Governor said that, until Jan 7, the Central Bank had implemented the programme on 96 per cent of the dealers involved and for 93 per cent of the amount. He praised the effect of the programme's implementation on the national economy.

Ozal predicts Turkey payments deficit halved ISTANBUL, Jan 15. (Reuter): Turkey's current account deficit for 1987 may be less than $750 million, about half the 1986 deficit, Prime Minister Turgut Ozal said yesterday. The current account balance of payments figures are keenly watched by foreign bankers concerned about repayment of Turkey's foreign debt. which stood at $33.1 billion in July. Turkey's unofficial total foreign revenue for 1987 would be about $16 billion against expenditures of between 16.70 and $16.75 billion, Ozal told state radio.

The official deficit in the first 10 months of 1987 was $395 million. The 1986 total was $1.53 billion and over $1 billion in 1984 and 1985.

The improvement was mainly due to a 34 per cent rise last year in Turkish exports, mostly manufactured goods. Exports are expected to earn $10 billion in Ozal said Turkey's rate of foreign debt accumulation compared to revenues was far slower than its peak in the 1975-79 period. He hoped Turkey's current account deficit would be eliminated within five years.

US trade deficit drops sharply

WASHINGTON, Jan 15, (Reuter): The US government today reported a sharp drop in the trade deficit for November. touching off a powerful rally in world financial markets.

The Commerce Department said the trade gap narrowed to $13.22 billion from October's record 17.63 billion thanks to a surge in exports and a drop in imports. The figure, the smallest deficit in six months and far better than the $15 billion that economists had forecast, immediately reassured traders worried that another poor trade figure would cause havoc in the financial

Surged

The dollar surged more than three per cent against major currencies, interest rates tumbled and Wall Street stocks soared as the markets read the report as evidence that America was finally getting its financial house in

The Dow Jones industrial average jumped more than 50 points in early trading to around 1,970.

The Reagan administration also cheered "The drop in the trade deficit is Trade welcome news." Trade Representative Clayton Yeutter said in a statement. It is rarely possible to generalise from only one month's figures, but the November report would seem to indicate that the huge rise in the October deficit was an aberration," he said. With American exports booming, he said there was no reason for Congress to pass a protectionist trade bill. "All the fundamentals remain in place for the deficit to decline further in 1988. There is never a good time to erect protectionist trade barriers, but this would clearly be the worst possible time

Inflation The government had more good news today, reporting that inflation remained subdued in December even though the nation's factories continued to

to do so," Yeutter said.

pump out more goods. The Labour Department said prices at the wholesale level dropped by a surprising 0.3 per cent in December after being unchanged in November. The department said wholesale prices for all of 1987 increased by 2.2 per cent after declining by 2.3 per cent in 1986. Prices for goods at the wholesale level are now about the same as they were in December 1985. Industrial production, meanwhile, rose 0.2 per cent in December after rising 0.4 per cent in November and 1.1 per cent in October, the Federal Reserve Board said.

Output of consumer goods was little changed, rising 0.1 per cent in December as widespread increases in production of how goods, especially appliances, was offset by decimes in car production, the Fed said.

The Commerce Department also reported that US business inventories rose by $5.57 billion or 0.8 per cent, in November to a seasonally adjusted 695.50 billion. If goods continued to pile up on the shelves, factories would eventually be forced to cut back production.

But it was the trade report that excited the markets. Because economists have blamed global trade imbalances — especially the US deficit — for the recent turmoil in the foreign exchange and stock markets, traders and policymakers alike had been nervously awaiting today's figures.

The government reported improvements across the board. US exports rose 9.4 per cent to a record $23.80 billion in November, the clearest sign yet that the three-year drop in the dollar has made US manufacturers more competitive on world markets. The deficit in manufactured goods narrowed to $12.22 billion in November from 15.52 billion in October.

Commerce Department officials said exports of aircraft, power generators and chemicals contributed to the record export performance in November. The previous record was $22.9 billion in March 1981.

There was also a marked improvement on the other side of the nation's trade ledger, with imports dropping 6.0 per cent to $37.02 billion.

IMF chief flays US

WASHINGTON, Jan 15, (AP): A leader of the International Monetary Fund sharply criticised the United States and other leading financial countries yesterday for failing to keep up the price of the dollar as they promised almost a year ago.

He urged that the United States raise interest rates. Higher interest in this country would help push up the dollar by attracting funds from other countries. Referring Netherlands Finance Minister H. Onno Ruding heads the Fund's interim committee, its top authority for day to day business among the 152 member governments. He was referring to the "Louvre agreement" in Paris last February by Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III and his counterparts from Japan, West Germany, Britain, France, Italy, and Canada. The agreement said the dollar should be kept at about current levels. Since then it has fallen about 18 percent against the Japanese yen, and about 11 per cent against the West German mark. Low prices for the dollar cut the income of those countries and others which depend heavily on exports.

"A country like (West) Germany may go into a slump." Ruding told reporters.

He said he had favoured a fall in the dollar, but that about a year ago it had fallen far enough. Stability had also been promised in later statements, he pointed Insufficient They did not deliver because of insufficient changes in domestic policy," he said.

He criticised West Germany for failing to lower its interest rates, a move that would have the same international effect as a rise in US rates: it would send more money to buy dollars in the United States, thus pushing up the price of the dollar. Ruding said his own country had repeatedly lowered its own interest rates. Another drop was

Debtor nations short of cash turn increasingly to barter

LONDON, Jan 15, (Reuter): Someone, traders' folklore says, once bartered the skeleton of a Mongolian dinosaur for West German trucks.

The Saudis swapped oil for Tornado warplanes. Honduras exchanged bananas for Soviet fertiliser. Barter, the world's oldest form of trade, is enjoying a new lease of life in the 1980s. And one reason, economists say, is that many nations are strapped for hard currency.

"The volume of countertrade has a lot to do with the fact that everyone is owing money. They don't have the foreign exchange needed for cash deals," said Jonathan Bell, research manager for Batis Ltd, a London firm providing trade information and complex business, involving not just bartering goods for goods the way early civilisations did before people invented money, but various other kinds of reciprocal trade agreement too.

There is 'buyback' for instance, where a firm gives a country technology and agrees to be paid in goods it produces. In "counterpurchase," the seller buys something from the buyer in exchange. "Offset" involves an exporter agreeing to incorporate in his final product some part or parts produced by the importing country. The extent of countertrade, long favoured by Communist countries, is hard to measure. Depending who you ask, it could account for anything from eight to 25 per cent of world trade. The head of countertrade at a large British company said it made up a tiny proportion of its total exports but between 50 and 100 per cent of sales to problem

Shrinking

"I think sellers in the 1990s are going to find rapidly shrinking area to export into where hard currency is available as payment," he said.

The debt crisis meant demand for countertrade was increasing as Communist and Third World exporters faced the problem of how else they could fund

"My view is that it is not going to get any better," the executive

"I believe that in the 1990s we shall all be searching for alternative ways to do business, not necessarily through countertrade, but through more creative ways of selling - buyers helping sellers find outlets for their goods, more goodwill."

Members of the Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries (Opec) use barter to evade organisation fixed pricing agreements.

Oil is a relatively serviceable means of exchange as the size, sophistication and efficiency of the world market means it can be converted into cash fairly easily.

Saudi Arabia bartered 400.000 barrels per day of crude oil to Shell and British Petroleum to pay for Tornado and other warplanes worth $8 billion from Britain in June.

Opec does not approve of barter, but many of its member countries do it, Jonathan Bell at London's Batis Ltd said.

He also said that the International Monetary Fund (IMF) "are on a downer on any kind of countertrade, but they will give their tacit approval to offset deals. They tend to ask why goods can't be sold for cash which could then be used to pay off debts to them or other Pakistan's small investors can' either put their money in the banks - annual return 12 to 16 er cent — or they can opt for illicit private investment companies paying anywhere from 50 to 150 per cent.

Not surprisingly, the banks are losing out. They are in theory not allowed to charge interest at all as it is banned under Islamic banking rules.

TSUBAME. Japan, Jan 15, (Reuter): For nearly a century, the mainstay of Tsubame has been its knife-and-fork business, but in the land of chopsticks it has always depended on exports to stay alive.

When the yen started its dramatic rise two years ago, it dealt a body blow to the cutlery industry in this northern Japanese town. "Endaka" (the high yen) raised the price of Japan's exports. Some Japanese industries did better than others, thanks partly to ample domestic Tsubame city official Tomici Takahashi said. Now the town is fighting back with a new production policy boosting domestic sales and a marketing campaign that has publicised Tsubame as far afield as New York. But recent years have been tough. Even before the Japanese currency rose to postwar highs. Tsubame's livelihood as cutlerymakers was threatened by competition from lower-wage rivals South Korea and Taiwan, said Takahashi.

"They were cutting into our business even before 'endaka', but the 'endaka' things got infinitely worse," he said. Bankrupt

Tsubame, a town of 44,000 people which in 1985 exported some 85 per cent of its cutlery, felt the shock almost immediately after the dollar began its slide in September 1985. Orders plummeted, and row after row of workshops were closed as workers were laid off. In 1986, the president of a failing cutlery company committed suicide on the eve of his firm's collapse. Two other major cutlery makers also went bankrupt, and about 10 changed to other lines of business entirely to survive, said Kiyoshi Ohhashi of Tsubame's Japan Metal Cutlery Industry Association, the cutlery workers' union.

Tsubame saw its cutlery exports drop 13.6 per cent in 1985, and a further 26.7 per cent in 1986. Many shops and restaurants merchants still in business on his block. "It's been depressing from the beginning, but now it's only getting worse," he complained.

But unemployment among cutlery makers is surprisingly low at about 300 from the industry's total workforce of about 6,000 people, Ohhashi said. In this close-knit community

As a stop-gap measure, man-which the newly industrialised nations are not yet competitive Another tactic is to turn Tsubame's traditional strength

Lillee's first class return draws mixed reactions

SYDNEY, Jan 15, (Reuter): Dennis Lillee's decision to put his peerless reputation on the line and return to first class cricket at the age of 38 has drawn mixed reactions in Australia.

Fast bowler Lillee retired from international cricket four years ago after taking an Australian and then world record 355 wickets in 70 Tests.

But this season, although playing club cricket in his native Perth, he has decided to join struggling Tasmania in the Shef-field Shield competition and in true Lillee fashion signalled his return by taking a wicket with his first ball against South Australia today.

The list of successful comebacks in any sport is small and commentators and players alike have been sceptical about Lillee's decision.

"It doesn't worry me at all," Lillee retorted when questioned at a packed news conference yes-

Warrants

"I've never worried about my reputation or the reputation of anyone I play against. I just think people should be allowed to do what they want to do and this is what I want to do.

"I've been practising three to four nights a week as well as playing at the weekends and have been doing a lot of running and general fitness work, so I'm confident my body can stand up to the strains of playing Shield cricket again.' Lillee's once-flowing locks are rapidly thinning and grey strands are evident but he has always kept himself in prime physical condition and his 36 wickets at just 12 runs each in the powerful Perth first grade competition this season are eloquent testimony to his enduring skills. With a single stump serving as a marker at team practice yesterday, the man rated by many as the best fast bowler ever to play the game knocked it out of the ground with his first delivery. He repeated the feat three balls later.

Despite Lillee's fitness and form, former Test partner Jeff Thomson has questioned the a substantial financial inducement must have been offered.

"He's got nothing to prove and is leaving himself open for knockers. It'll be all right if Den-nis gets wickets, but if he doesn't, the knockers will say "silly old bastard," Thomson said. "All I can say is that his bank balance must be looking pretty healthy right now."

New Zealand's Richard Hadlee, joint world record holder with England's lan Botham with 373 Test wickets, told a local newspaper he regarded Lillee as the greatest fast bowler ever but could not comprehend his decision to come back.

"Dennis has nothing to gain by coming out of retirement for another attempt at big-time cricket. Lillee went out on a high a few years ago and I admired his decision." Hadlee said.

But I have no idea why he has now opted to make a comeback."

However Botham, now playing Sheffield Shield for Queensland, described Lillee as "the master of masters," and said he would make a successful return.

"The guy is a fitness freak. If you know the man, you will know anything that he sets his mind to he'll have a go at and achieve." Botham said.

Former Test captain and team-mate Greg Chappell agreed and said Lillee's decision to return was a great thing for Australian cricket.

"He's not 100 per cent fit but fit enough as he has been playing in club competition." Chappel said. "Dennis's experience and ability will be very useful to the whole Tasmanian side.

The New South Wales offspinner chipped in with the vital wicket of captain Ranjan Madugalle just when the Sri Lankans looked like threatening the Australian total of 243 for eight off 50 overs.

Sri Lanka could manage only 205 from 44.5 overs after a collapse which saw the last six wickets fall for 42 runs.

The young Sri Lankan team, who beat New Zealand in Hobart on Tuesday, looked set to record another upset when Madugalle and Arjuna Ranatunga were at the crease.

They shared an exciting 97-run partnership to help Sri Lanka to recover from 66 for four and close in on the winning target.

But then Taylor claimed the wickets of Madugalle, caught for 44, and Guy de Alwis, who fell for a duck. Ranatunga was run out for 67 in the next over.

Australia had recovered from a shaky start in which they lost openers David Boon for two and Geoff Marsh for nought with only six runs on the board. But they revived with a 60-run partnership between Dean Jones and Mike Veletta. Veletta notched up his highest score in the series — 46 off 68

Leading 1-0 from the first leg,
Porto made sure of becoming the first side to hold all three trophies at the same time when Antonio

Sousa scored in the 70th minute. The goal, which sparked some life into a generally dull match, came after the Dutch defence misread a Joao Pinto cross and allowed the deadly Sousa a clear shot from close-range.

Two down on aggregate, Ajax tried to raily but were worn down by the Portuguese attack which grew more adventurous as the visitors began to tire.

Rui Barros, who played to form only in the second half. almost scored twice in the dying minutes but was foiled by a bad bounce and some last-gasp tack-

CHIHAB AND HANAN FINISH THIRD IN KUWAIT RALLY

Al Hilal holds off Al Wazzan for first-round win

By Gail Seery

KUWAIT champion Ahmed Al Hilal took a decisive 4 minutes 37 seconds victory over rally veteran Tareq Al Wazzan in his Mariboro sponsored Range Rover in yesterday's first round of the 1988 Kuwait champion-

Driving his new Rothmans Toyota Corolla for the first time. Al Hilal and co-driver Fahed Al Rashed suffered few problems in the ten-stage event. Third was Faez Chihab with his wife Hanan Al Shanteer as a new co-driver. Ahmed Al Nasser was in fourth place in his Mitsubishi Lancer. and Tareq and Khuloud Alyan were in lifth place in their Charade.

Pleased

Al Hilal and Al Rashed had one flat tyre on the third stage but continued, losing between 30 and 32 seconds. Other than that the event had been straightforward. Al Rashed said that he was very pleased with Al Hilal's driving. You need to be a very good driver to handle a new car so well." He added that "you need very good notes to do well on this rally as there are quite a few tricky places." This is a remark that those whose notes were not so good would certainly agree with. He also praised the oneman service team. "It's been very good," he said. Al Hilal said he was pleased with his car and with his sponsor, and has great hopes for the new season now that he has a more competitive vehicle.

Al Wazzan was naturally disappointed to be in second place. However, "As I told you, the Range Rover was at a disadvantage on this rally." Even so, he had been just one second behind Al Hilal when the Marlboro Range Rover had a puncture. 'Wedidn't stop, and we drove on with the puncture for 11km. We lost 2 minutes and 30 seconds in stage 4 through that. These stages need a fast car, not a strong car. I pushed very hard," he added. His co-driver Khaled Khalifa added that although they had tried hard it had been impossible to make up time on the Corolla Faez Chihab made his return to rallying after a three year break, and like Al Wazzan before him, proved that skill is not lost so quickly. Chihab was Kuwait's first national champion, and would dearly like to take this year's title, if he can find a good sponsor. "I am glad to be back in the driving seat," he said. He praised his wife. "Hanan read the pace notes well. She was a terrific co-driver. However there had been rear suspension problems after stage 6. Chihab said that he had offered a prize for the best novice co-driver, and for the best novice driver. "We should encourage the newcomers," he Further problems were in store; they drove the last two stages without 2nd and 3rd gears.

Mike Allen and Martin Phillips in the Volvo hit trouble on stage 3 when their car caught fire. They kept going despite a massive time penalty, supported admirably by Lester Feather-stonehaugh and team. Drivers were full of praise for the organisation. Al Wazzan said simply that it was "beautiful". and Al Hilal added that he did not think that Kuwait had ever had such a well organised rally.

The marshalls all worked well and there had been no problems. Miskulnig praised the attitude of some of the younger drivers, particularly Saeed Ali, who had behaved sensibly when being passed.

Some competitors were less fortunate. Al Husseini who set the fastest stage time on stage 1 went out on stage three with gearbox/clutch trouble. Again, Eid Falah, the Marlboro sponsored driver who has had several months of bad luck suffered further problems.

Sadeq Ashkanani, his navigator, explained: "We had engine problems from the very start. There was trouble with the carburretor and our times were very slow. Then on stage six we had a big oil leak and didn't con-tinue. We were second at that Problems

Ali Birami suffered an electrical failure in his Mitsubishi Lancer, forcing him to drop out of the rally. Peter Freiseneger in the Volkswagen Beetle went out on the first stage with engine problems. Only 18 of the 32 drivers who set out finished.

And me? My car, a Hamoor-sponsored Mitsubishi Pajero driven by Harry Carr rolled at the end of stage 8, when we were running in tenth place. Fortunately neither of us was seriously

Iraq outlast Kuwait to qualify for Games

MUSCAT, Jan 15, (Reuter): Former World Cup finalists Iraq secured a place at this year's Seoul Olympics with a 1-0 win over Kuwait in a fiercely contes-ted match today.

Joyful Iraqis who watched a live television broadcast of the game in Baghdad greeted the result with volleys of gunfire in the air. Iraq, two of whose players went off injured, repeatedly repelled an increasingly desperate Kuwait in the second half of the game, played in Oman because of a Fifa ban on matches in countries at war. Missed

Karem Allawi scored the only goal after 23 minutes but the Kuwaitis always threatened to equalise. Kuwaiti captain Faisal Dakhii missed a wide-open chance in the early minutes of the tie, the first of several narrow misses. Kuwait, who qualified for the Moscow Olympics in 1980, had defeated Iraq 2-1 in the first leg of this west Asian group competi-tion. They needed only to draw to make the final 12 in the fight for Olympic medals this Septem-Iraqreached the final in the 1986 World Cup in Mexico.

After the match the chairman alom of the Kuwait Football Association, Sheikh Fahd Al Ahmed, its qualification for the Olympics.

However, Sheikh Fahd criticised the Jordanian referee and said that he was one of the worst at that he had seen. But he was of the opinion that Kuwait shouldnot attribute its defeat to bad + refereeing.

"Although Kuwait lost the match, the team proved itself." Sheikh Fahd added. He also said that although the referee had not done a good job, none of the Kuwattı piayanattacked him and the team behaved in the best possible way. In the earlier match between the two teams, the Iraqi players had manhandled the Singaporean referee in Kuwait.

Sheikh Fahd said the team had performed to the best of its ability but regretted that it had lost and had been unable to qualify for the Olympics.
